A Biblical Study of Priesthood & Spiritual Saints Leadership, Of Judaism & Christianity

Dr. Tayyaba Razzaq

Abstract

The significance of Saints Leadership in Judaism and Christianity is of vital rank. Although both religions recognize the same Biblical characters and their viewpoints on the significance of these religious personalities have diverged greatly, albeit sometimes even matching motifs and themes. The influence of religious institutions and leaders have on the growth of religious heritage is undeniable; however, it has been received very slight attention in the literature review.

As religious & spiritual leaders of Judaism and Christianity, they serve the community's spiritual needs and help them understand the religious laws and practices they need to follow. It is important to note that a spiritual leader is inherently more qualified and trained religiously than any educated person ‘comes to leading services. The purpose of this paper is to examine the role of religious leaders and the effects on the growth of their religions and their role of Priesthood and Papacy in biblical perspective. The qualitative methodology has been adopted. The research carried out in descriptive & an analytical manner.

4; Discussion

Dedicated Religious Personality

It is believed in that super natural or spiritual powers may be controlled by one, who has given the authority by the community. He makes relationship between the community and super natural and spiritual powers. He is considered to be a sacred person and bounded by all pertaining conditions of sacredness. A religiously dedicated person is authorized by the society and the head of the state who is appointed for religious duties as well. He is associated with shrines or monasteries and other such places known sacred in religious perspective. Particular religious personalities have been considered sacred and different parts of his body like nails hands or hair being touched and kept in custody (if dead) by the followers and devotees. Before coming in contact with masses or performance of rituals, such personalities has been advised by their religion to get some special sort of preparation; to practice particular dress code. His physical cleanliness, his food must be followed by the determined law. His sexual relationships are also decisive. Sometimes he has to keep away from women and the criteria for his expected spouse is quite different than others. He is not allowed to physically involve in any kind of human-welfare task and quarrel and bloodshed.²

A spiritual preceptor or cult leader is very important for spiritual purification. It is believed in that truths do not come from book study merely or independent intellectual contemplation. In fact this is the result of inherited wisdom handed down from inspired leaders. So these people not only convey the Truth and enlighten their followers, but also teach their practical initiation and meditation techniques. Like male religious leaders, some female dedicated women are also playing their roles in the process of spiritual purification at worship places. All above given rules are followed by these devotees too. Similar rules regarding marriage, chastity, food, had applied to them too. Mostly their duties were of secondary level. The female devotees have been done the duties of temple music or interpretation of oracular sayings. The female executive at worship places were considered as wives of god. Continuously confined life into the temples made them to physical relationship with priest, worshippers or devotees and sometimes she became the public prostitute. This practice does not exist in lower tribes but in great civilized cult.

The religious devotees did good job to purify people at sacred places. They were guardian of morals as well the ethics of life that was not separated from a religion. The followers of them got the best moral ideas from divine law. The Priests interpret, announced and sometimes administered the moral laws in a society. But on other side, the priests were conservatives of good as well bad. They maintained and applied religious customs and restrictions and sometimes restored them even by force. They sacrificed public interest to the interest of power and authority. Sometimes they had fallen into the luxuries life and debauchery.

1.1 Meaning & Background of Priesthood

The literal meaning of the word “priest” is holiness. Priesthood is considered holy. It is implanted in the exact connotation of “priest” anyhow; every priest was advised to prepare before coming in front of God. Sometimes this preparation practice covers the entire life of a priest. Modern Jewish have no more priest but Rabbis. The Rabbis claims to belong to “Lavi” tribe. Lavi tribe has been considered the ancient priestly family in Jewish history. In 930 B.C. king David and Solomon had begun the Hebrew cardinality. King Solomon had assistance of ‘zadok’ family that had affected on the Jerusalem temple. After the fall of his kingdom (722B.C.) the priest were controlled by the kings. King Saul as the first king of Israel had violated these laws and was severely chastised by King Samuel. King Saul refused to repent on his sins and changed into replaced with the aid of David. A rabbi’s necessity comes from specifically studying for years to attain a high level of knowledge regarding Jewish law and customs. When questions arise concerning Jewish laws and customs, Jewish culture encourages consulting a rabbi for advice on the matter as they are learned scholars of halakha (Jewish law)

Rabbi Characteristics

The rabbi of a Jewish community offers guidance in many areas. Even as they are mostly required to offer guidance regarding halakha, rabbis often end up functioning as more generalized support to the community they work within. They may meet with individuals to discuss more personal concerns and provide support or assistance. In addition, rabbis also often serve as supports to their community, exemplars of Jewish values and practices, and as leaders in social and philanthropic ventures.

1.2 Status of the Priest

A priest is the mediator of God, chosen by God. The priest was negotiator as a middle-person between God and sinful person. No other can do could do this task as the Lord has given to the priest. According to Bible, only priest is so closer to the God that he can even force to God. A priest can only make offerings as he has granted this status by the Lord. In the book of Leviticus, holiness has been given as the strongest aspect of a priest. There were set levels and ranking for the priest s. The level of holiness goes with the particular ranks. Some rituals performed as preparation of a priest before going in front of God. His consecration is by an elaborate ritual of washing, vesting with robes, anointing with oil, and sacrificial rites. The sacrificial ceremonies last for seven days. The office passed to the eldest son of each occupant, and Aaron was the first to become consecrated. Inasmuch as he alone was epithets of the high priest was the anointed priest. The functionary of the Jewish congregation is the Rabbi as a teacher, lawyer, but does not necessarily read or preach in the synagogue, though he often does. Descendants of the priests (cohanim) are honored but have no official position. It is the reader (hazzan) who is the chief officiates at the service, reading the Torah. The faith is also publicly confessed. So priest is resembled to God.

1.3 Rules for Priest

The priests were not allowed to touch and keep contact with any dead (Leviticus, 21:1-6). They were not allowed to participate in any burial ceremony. Any such occurrences will not only the reason of defilement of the priest but also for others as well. He is appointed as the spiritual purifier for all. He has to perform religious rituals of purification like sacrifices and other offerings. No other can perform. The priests were not allowed to touch and keep contact with any dead.10 They were not allowed to participate in any burial ceremony. Any such occurrences will not only the reason of defilement of the priest but also for others as well. He is appointed as the spiritual purifier for all. He has to perform religious rituals of purification like sacrifices and other offerings. No other can perform these duties as he is appointed as chief amongst other because of his higher level of spirituality. The word “baal” was used for the chief-priests among Israelites. The priests were banned to be commemorative impure. He has to do this with intentional believe. His duty is on behalf of the Lord. This conviction should be more than any relationship. If priest involved in uncleanness than it would be considered as all Israel is sinful. Committing this act, a priest could be disqualifying from his duties. Bible warns Israelites that they may not like to cut themselves or baldness as these people are chosen hath chosen.11 They were ordered by their Lord, “not to cut their hair from four corners of their face and not make any mark.”12 Priest is considered the right hand of God and is also interceder.13 The priest has to wear the particular dress or cardigan’ considered as “The Holy Rob” with linen costume inside it.14 The disfigure priest, who also involved in sinful acts would be removed from the sacred duty of the church and spiritual purification for the God.15 Anyone who touches something crawling is considered unpurified. In the same way, domestic birds, different kind of insects, carcass have been considered extremely hate able for them. Anyone who touches anyone of above mentioned will be considered impure whole day.16 If anyone do not gets purified by the system, will not be considered as a regular or routine cleaned person and prohibited to eat anything. Anyhow he can eat holy things if he gets purified with water before the time of uncleanness is over. He should be kind-hearted and God fearing in people as the certain text describes; As Torah says; due to prosperity’ you did not oblige cheerful and bliss heartedly to your God, as penalty I will involve you in hunger and thirst, bareness and shortened worldly needs and destroy you.17

Special duties of a high priest are offering of daily meals, burning incense daily. He conducts the special ceremony on the “Day of Atonement”; especially burning incense & offering sacrifices. When he is alone, attired only in the priestly linen grab, entered ‘the Holy of Holiness’ showers the blood of immoral actions and flames aroma. He maintains golden candle stand its fire. In synagogue his duty is to study and teach Torah. He directs the work of priests & Levites and sanctification of the priests. Before prayer, it is an obligation to bind their left arm and forehead as a preparatory act for worship. He has to dress up in a certain style by putting on “ephod, breastplate, turban, robe and linen tunic. Usually the age of twenty is considered as the age of entering into priesthood. A priest is called “Minister of the Lord”. You will consume the resources of wealth of communities and in their weathers’ you will brag. A priest is a guide for all, for the master, he is his slave, towards a merchant as a customer, for debtor relevant as bestowed.

The distinctive features of a priest made demands from masses to be respectful to him, otherwise they must pay a penalty for this sin as Korah.

A pious and devout should be free of worldly desires as “an abundance of wealth and affluence forgets your heats to remember the Lord and as the result he will be punished by poverty and decrease of such earthly needs and demolish.”

1.7 Rules for his Personal Life

A priest has to choose a life partner with tough conditions described by the law. He is “not allowed to marry a women already married, widow, divorced, desert, crude or vulgar.”

A priest is a declared pious man so these conditions are the solid logic for pure and a holy union. A priest must be abide by the laws of Talmud to be entirely pure, as the Lord is Holy and pure and likes holy or pure. For the family of a priest the rules are stricter as compare to anyone. If the daughter of a priest involves in any kind of profane will be burnt.

The rules for the holiness of a high ranked priest are more tight and rigid. A grand rector is commanded to keep anointed head, sanctified with rob recommended for the high priest. He is forbidden to move out bare-head and rive his garments. He was banned to cry over any kind of loss and even the death of his parents, he can’t wail. To contribute towards the pastoral care, there is no alternative.

He should not come in any funeral or burial ceremony and leave the church and violate the rules of the Lord as the church is holy and keep it holy.

He must enter on the Day of Atonement.

He is prohibited to eat less unholy things, but only a short amount to secure his life. The inferior holy includes offerings in the church and taxes (tenth) etc. A priest gets unholy in particular conditions like touching any dead body, sexual act, skin disease etc. So he can’t eat holy things in those conditions until he comes out these impurities.

The individual and private existence is less important than duties of the spiritual leadership.

2: Christian Religious & Spiritual Leaders
The theologian says that God reveals himself to man. We are inclined to think of speech or writing as the obvious ways of communicating and since we have not heard God talk or seen anything in his handwriting. The picture of God sweeping into a room for a conversation in fluent English, or of writing mysteriously appearing on a wall, or a muffled, solemn whisper are unbelievable images. But revelation is better understood as akin to intuition, a phenomenon with which we do have experience. We can frankly admit that we often have acted on the basis of intuition. Revelation may be thought of as a specialized form of intuition: spontaneous insight regarding the basic questions of meaning in life. The individual is not left completely adrift in verifying a revelation. The church passes on a heritage of conscious and unconscious---- The individual has also the certainty of his intuition. The revelation is self-authenticating. He need only respond with faith. Faith is the respond of commitment to an intuition. Faith is belief in something that is beyond the possibility of proof and disproof. It is not belief in something that is known to be false. It is total commitment of the individual’s rational and emotive being to what he believes to be a truth.

2.1 Historical Background of the Papacy
In ancient Christianity, there were no emperor but Bishop and the Pope. When the Constantine kingship transferred, Pope became the divine authority of church. Roman Bishop was called “Supreme Pontiff”. There were two different popes and churches of East and West. Both the East and West have different culture so they needed merger. In this merger many monks suffered severely. The author of Bible favors “Jesus” as a single great priest rather than, of all Christians as priests “Jesus is our Passover lamb”. The Roman church has given detailed guidance of cleansing & refinement for Priest and Priest-hood. May be the defilement caused unexpectedly happening or other such defilement. The Bible says; “John who loved us and wiped off our immoral crimes into his blood, and made us ruler and Priests for God,”

2.2 Ranking for the Priest
According to the church law, 1578’ “the priest is chosen by God” or a priest is the mediator of God, chosen by God. There were set levels and ranking for the priest s. The level of holiness goes with the particular ranks;

2.3 Pope
Roman Catholic Pope is the head of all churches in Christianity. All his commandments are being implemented in Christian world. He is successor of saint peter. According to Catholics, roman pope is considered innocent. In practices of religious believe and ethics, he is in an ideal state. He can’t commit any kind of mistake. Jorge Mario Bergoglio (1936) is the great Catholics pope now-a-day. All the followers assist him regarding religious affairs. These are;

2.4 Cardinal
He is considered the second highest religious and spiritual leader in Christian world and particularly Roman Catholic class. He selects one hundred and seventy eight cardinals from all over the world in catholic Christians. After the selection of these cardinals, this committee or board selects the chief this cardinals committee. This selected committee also assists and councils to the great catholic pope. After the death of great pope, this committee selects the great pope of Roman Catholics.

2.5 Arch Bishop
Archbishop is the chief of metropolitan or central station or a unit. A cardinal can also take the charge of this post. In United States of America, there are forty five archbishops.

2.6 Bishop
In the ranking of Roman Catholic Church, this is considered the fourth biggest level. Bishop is the supervisor and a spiritual guide of the priests of an area. A bishop is a theoretical teacher of religious scriptures and a pious priest. In United States of America, there are two hundred and ninety bishops.

2.7 Priest
He is the administrator of a church, who conducts prayers, teaches Bible in profoundly teaches the truth, weddings ceremonies and a missionary as well. Most of the people keep in contact with him as he is approachable to all. He has a passionate love for Jesus. They preach Christianity in more effective manner. To be spiritually purified, a person has to do confession in front of priest. According to Bible, ‘Saint Paul’ kept on preaching and moralizing as his pastoral service.

2.8 Deacon
Deacons are under training priests and ordered to be respected, mostly stayed at church. They perform the duties of spending alms to needy and poor. Both men women served
